

It's Christmas Time Again

I do hope for a Christmas with love, peace and cheer
With all of the things that are sweet to the ear,
The carols say the season is to be jolly
But I feel this is just a mindless folly,
Love is for example overpowered and swamped
By business and worries so you have to watch out,
Peace on the other hand, well just look around
For this time of year extra effort must be found.
In each home we have decorations, lights and a tree
But I think back to the stable which had bended knees
Of the shepherd and wise men when the saviour they see.

So I wish you all love towards your family and friends
And peace while you do all the things you must tend
I wish you all the seasons good cheer
Have a very Happy Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Theme: Long term favourite piece.

At the time I wrote this poem it was intended to be sent in Christmas cards in 2015 , but I , never did. I read it every year wondering should this year.

What this piece means to me.

“It’s Christmas Time Again “ is written from my heart, I was always in turmoil at christmas as I live in Bathurst ,my sons and grandchildren lived in Victoria and my parents lived on the central coast. It was all just to hard to see everyone back then, well it still is. So this poem is for all my family.

Outline of who you are as a creative person

I have always loved being creative , but I don’t stay with one thing too long. Gardening , sewing, leatherwork, candlemaking and writing have all been interests that I could play with creativity.
